National Seminar is focused on Impact of Globalization on the Performance of Foreign Trade in India.

Globalization is “the growing liberalization of international trade and investment, and the resulting increase in the integration of national economies.” Economist David Henderson

Globalization has opened up new and tremendous opportunities for worldwide developers. The process of globalization is an inevitable phenomenon in human history which has been bringing the world closer since the time of early trade and exploration, through the exchange of goods, products, information, jobs, knowledge and culture.

Globalization offers both opportunities and challenges for our country in many ways. It has created significant opportunities for manufacturing, agriculture, service sectors and many others. Besides, there has been significant inflow of foreign investments in to India. Since the integration of the Indian economy to the international economic regime, there witnessed a sudden upsurge in the strategic thinking of India with regard to Foreign Direct Investment (FDI). Foreign Direct Investment is considered to be the engine of growth for the host countries. India’s dire need for foreign investment coalesced with the initiation of certain policy changes such as reduction of restriction and controls over the entry of foreign firms, created a climate conducive for foreign direct investment. Seminar seeks to analyse the implications of globalization to the Performance of Foreign Trade in India.
